

Authors

Available online: 02/07/2021

Francesca Bianchi, is Associate professor in Sociology at the University of Siena. She has taken part in several studies and researches concerning social and cultural transformations, continuing vocational training and guidance (with ISFOL Rome, Carlo Cattaneo Institute of Bologna, MTI of Boston). She has been involved, as Italian expert in social and education fields, in the European network COST 13 Working group n. 4 “Youth employment/unemployment”, Action Changing labour market, welfare policies and citizenship. In recent years she has been particularly studying the social interaction and the new forms of sociality and participation in everyday life, taking part to several international conferences organized by ESPAnet, European Network for Housing Research. In 2015 she was visiting researcher in Tours, “Cités, TERritoires, Environnement et Sociétés” Unité de Recherche CITERES, François Rabelais University, Tours and in 2018 visiting professor in Paris Nanterre, Centre de Recherche sur l’Habitat (CRH), Laboratoire LAVUE. She published several books and articles on national and international reviews.

Nicolina Bosco, Ph.D. in Educational Sciences, is a Researcher in Didactics and Special Pedagogy at the Department of Education, Human Sciences and Intercultural Communication, University of Siena. Her research interests focus on multiculturalism and radicalization in life and school contexts, inclusion and social marginalisation.

She presented her research in national and international journals and in several conferences in Italy and abroad. She carried out study and research experiences at the Université Diderot Paris 7 (Paris, France) and at the Georgetown University (Washington, D. C., USA) where she improved her competences on research methodology. She is currently involved in an inter-university multidisciplinary research project entitled “F.O.R.w.A.R.D. Training, Research, and Development of “community based” strategies to prevent radicalization and support integration”.

Educational Reflective Practices (ISSNe 2279-9605), 2/2021
Doi: 10.3280/erp2-2021oa12122

Caterina Garofano, is a Ph.D. student in Learning and Innovation in Social and Work Contexts at University of Siena. She previously took a Master's Degree in Educational science and pedagogical counseling at the University of Siena, with a thesis entitled "Building handcrafted artifacts for inclusive learning: Interactive multisensory books". Her research interests focus on professional development, educational design and multimodal artifacts for learning.

Alessandra Romano, is a Senior Researcher in the Education Department of the University of Siena. In both teaching and research, Dr. Romano's focus is in generating conditions for adults, groups and teams to learn, grow and develop the skillful means for collaborative inquiry and organizational change. Her particular strands of research are diversity and disability management, and experience-based methods, such as art-based and performative methodologies.

Rosita Deluigi, PhD. is Associate Professor of General and Social Pedagogy at the University of Macerata, Department of Education, Cultural Heritage and Tourism. Her research activity focuses on dialogues between cultures; aging, intergenerational dialogue, and home care; design of educational services for children 0-6 years; training of professional educators. She is involved in several regional, national and European projects as a member of the research team or as a local coordinator. She is the author of essays and articles, among which the most significant is: Legami di cura. Badanti, anziani e Famiglie (FrancoAngeli).

Geraldina Roberti, Ph.D. in Communication Sciences at Sapienza University of Rome, is Associate Professor of Sociology of Cultural and Communicative Processes at the University of L'Aquila. Her current research interests include consumption and youth subcultures, sustainability and the relationship between young people identity and consumption practices. Among her works, Vite da Millennials. Culture e pratiche comunicative della Generazione Y, Guerini e Associati, Milano, 2017.

Antonella Nuzzaci, is Associate Professor of Experimental Pedagogy in the Department of Human Studies of University of L'Aquila, where she is President of the Didactic Area Council in Education and Social Work. Her research interests are related to educational experimentation in the field of teacher training (with reference to methodological, reflective and digital skills), evaluation and self-assessment processes and quality and accreditation systems in higher education, and cultural heritage education.

She is member of national and international research centers and she responsible for European Erasmus and national projects. She is author of about 300 publications including essays, articles, volumes

Anna Grazia Lopez, Associate Professor in General Pedagogy in the Department of Human Science at University of Foggia. Her studies related to gender education and training educator. She is the author of essays and articles, among which: Pedagogia delle differenze. Intersezioni tra genere ed etnia, ETS, Pisa 2018; Loiodice I. Lopez A.G (eds., 2020), Pedagogia in ricerca. Soggetti, contesti, metodi, Progedit, Bari.

Chiara Biasin, is Full Professor in the Department of Philosophy, Sociology, Pedagogy and Applied Psychology (FISPPA) at the University of Padua. She is Chair of the Degree Course in Educational Sciences at the University of Padua.

Her research focuses on adult education, lifelong and continuing education, vocational education and training, transitions in life course and to the adulthood, non formal/informal learning.

María Teresa de Jesús Martínez Núñez, Bachelor's degree in Business Administration, Instituto Tecnológico de Nuevo León, México. Master's degree in Administration, Universidad Autónoma de Tamaulipas, México. PhD in Education. Universidad Autónoma de Tamaulipas, México. Workplace: Universidad Autónoma del Noreste, México.

Dulce María del Carmen Villegas Aréchiga, Bachelor's degree in Psychology. Universidad Autónoma de Nuevo León. México. Master's degree in Psychology. Universidad de las Américas. México. PhD in Education. Universidad España de Durango. México. Workplace: Universidad Autónoma del Noreste, México.

Estefanía Villarreal Nájera, Bachelor's degree in Economics. Universidad Autónoma de Coahuila. México. Master's degree in Labor Law. Universidad Autónoma del Noreste. México. Workplace: Universidad Autónoma del Noreste, México.

Mauricio Javier Navarro Bulgarelli, is a Ph.D. student in Mind, Gender, and Language at the University of Naples Federico II. He is an interim university professor at the Counseling and Special Education Department of the University of Costa Rica. His research focus is related to vocational and career guidance counseling and other educational topics. He is a member of the International Honor Society in Education Kappa Delta Pi.

Francesca Torlone, senior researcher at the University of Siena, searching on adult learning policies and measures, institutional and organisational learning, embedded learning in workplaces, prison adult learning. She has been coordinating international research groups and searched on organisational learning processes and informal embedded learning supporting individuals, teams, organisations as well as regional governments in their learning processes.

Giovanni Bonaiuti, PhD is Associate Professor in Teaching and learning at University of Cagliari. He is coordinator of the education and training sciences course at the University of Cagliari. His research interests include teaching and learning methodologies in the perspective of evidence-based education, educational technology in enhanced learning environments and teacher education.

Ludovica Fanni, educator and pedagogist. She collaborated in the POT project “Orientation and tutoring paths to promote academic and professional success” of the local unit of the University of Cagliari. Her research interest concerns the curricular academic internships and students’ professional development.

Claudia Banchetti, is a Ph.D. student in Learning and Innovation in Social and Work Contexts at University of Siena. She previously took a Master’s Degree in Educational Science and Pedagogical Counseling at the University of Siena.

Her research interests focus on the management of training processes in organizations.

Rubina Petruccioli, is a Ph.D. student in Learning and Innovation in Social and Work Contexts at University of Siena. She took a Master’s Degree in Educational Science and Pedagogical Counseling at the University of Siena. She also previously achieved a Bachelor’s Degree in Educational Science at the same University.

Her research interest focus on the inclusive education, with particular attention to the development of sense of self-efficacy and professional identity in support teachers.